Ten Cents

The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

What is the S.L.A.?

Most small, community newspapers also produce commercial printing to more fully utilize expensive printing equipment. This brings into the office sometimes interesting, sometimes strange personalities.

That is to explain why, last year, we were involved in a conversation regarding some business cards for a musical group of youngsters of mixed ethnic backgrounds.

"We're calling our orchestra 'The Symbiosis' the spokesman said. During the conversation he explained the meaning of 'symbiosis'. 'When different kinds of people get together to help each other, that's symbiosis,' he said. As far as we know the group was never in trouble. But it denotes youthful interest in the word—the word that was soon to be associated with murder and revolution.

The incident was mentally rekindled when the Symbionese Liberation Army kidnaped Patricia Hearst. Symbionese, of course, stems from symbiosis.

While state and federal officials are seeking ways and means to return the unfortunate young lady to her distraught parents, others are seeking to unravel the mystery of the little-known Symbionese Liberation Army which abducted her.

An SLA statement admitted that its name was taken from the word symbiosis and the meaning defined by SLA is "a body of dissimilar bodies and organisms living in deep and loving harmony and partnership."

Webster says it a little differently: "... the living together in more less intimate association or close union of two dissimilar organisms."

SLA uses a seven-headed cobra as its symbiotic symbol which is said to stand for "self determination." The heads represent cooperation, production, creativity, unity, faith, purpose, and collective bargaining.

It is believed that the Symbionese Liberation Army is composed of a small, close-knit fanatical group of youths, mostly under 30 years of age. Its membership, which is mixed racially and ethnically, is likely to total less than 50 persons, mostly all centered in the San Francisco or Berkeley area.

SLA goals are believed to be:

"Unite all oppressed people into a fighting force to destroy the system of capitalistic state and all its value systems.

"Assure the rights of all people to self-determination and the rights to build their own nation and government.

"Destroy all forms and institutions of Racism, Sexism, Ageism, Capitalism, Fascism, Individualism, Possessiveness, Competitiveness and other institutions that have sustained capitalism."

It is believed that two of its members, Russell Little and Joseph Remiro, now held in prison as suspects of murdering Oakland school superintendent Marcus Foster last year, will be part of the bartering machinery.

The Hearst abduction, and many other crimes against innocent people, have stemmed from the high court's determination not to discriminate against minorities—even though it means outright discrimination against the majority.

Crime rates will continue to grow until just penalties attend the crime and all profit is taken out of criminal acts.

Post Office Adds a Little Extra

Those who have been demanding a change in the operation of the U.S. Postal Service will get their wish Saturday, March 2.

The change, however will not be exactly what postal patrons had in mind.

The change you'll get is a 25 per cent increase on first class letters; 33 1/3 per cent on postal cards and 18 1/4 per cent on air mail postage. Letters will be 10 cents—up 2 cents; Post Cards will be 8 cents—up 2 cents, and Air Mail, 13 cents—up 2 cents.

The service will remain as it is—somewhere between good and bad, depending on the postal patron's recent experiences.

The U. S. Postal Service, a quasi-federal organization, promised better service when it took over the U.S. Post Office organization several years ago.

Since then the employee total has grown and leveled off. Salaries now average $9,500 a year and the application list is large. An increase of $700 was handed out last July. Another $400 will be given in July this year. A cost-of-living increase has also been given.

Other niceties devised for the pleasure and comfort of the postal patron include carpeted floors in Post Office lobbies, roped, control lanes (similar to those used in banks) which feed patrons into the next open window.

The millions of dollars in added income for the U.S. Postal Service will be used to reduce the operating deficit of the mail organization. The delivery service, which most postal authorities believe to be excellent, will remain about the same. Most Post Offices work against a Service Standard which requires next day delivery for local mail.

Thus, the only thing the public will get for its dime stamp will (hopefully) be a smaller deficit.

Man Dies Of Wounds

A man shot just before Christmas, when he allegedly attempted to hold up a Lemon Grove 7-11 convenience store, has died.

The man, identified by Coroner Harry La Salle, as Anthony Alfredo Reserva, 35, lived at 4145 Violet st., La Mesa.

The sheriff's department reported that Reserva was shot in the head by the manager of the 7-11 store at 3834 Massaachusetts ave. during the alleged robbery attempt.

Deputies said Reserva, wearing a ski mask, came into the store about 11 p.m. December 22 and pointed a .22 calibre gun at clerk Mark Fairweather, 19.

Manager Ray Hollings observed the holdup attempt from an office in the rear of the store. An intercom system allowed him to hear the conversation. He shot the suspect with a .43 automatic pistol. The bullet entered Reserva's head below the ear, went through his neck and lodged in his arm.

The coroner said he died at the Grossmont hospital at 5:25 a.m. Saturday.

Tax Override Eyed By L.G. Schools

The Lemon Grove school board is faced with calling a tax election on June 4.

District superintendent Robert Sutton said that school enrollment had dropped and with it, state and federal aid had been reduced.

But school costs are up. Even though the district is dropping an average of six teachers a year.

The board is in the process of studying next year's revenue projection. The combination of lower aid and increased costs may make a tax override election necessary, to maintain the present quality of education, Sutton said.

The District, in fighting the growing vandalism loss, had

Sheriff Charges 6 With Gambling, Prostitution

Three persons were taken into custody at a Lemon Grove bar Friday after sheriff's deputies said they were involved in bookmaking.

Van G. Raver and J. R. Keown, both bartenders at Pal's Cafe, and Clyde Smith, listed as a customer of the cafe were the three charged. The bartenders were charged

Fuel Rules Outlined

Gasoline and diesel fuel retailers can not modify their normal business practices to sell gas or diesel fuel only to regular customers, Barry Rans, Stabilization Chief of the Internal Revenue Service in Southern California said.

Under a regulation issued Feb. 12, by the Federal Energy Office, petroleum suppliers, including retailers, can not discriminate among purchasers, Rans said.

The regulation also prohibits its new preferential arrangements involving volume sales by retailers, Rans said. For example, it is illegal for a gasoline retailer to sign up a customer to purchase 1,000 gallons, $50 worth or a month's requirements in advance, he said.

Violations of the regulation could result in a civil penalty of $2,500, or a criminal penalty of $5,000, for each violation, Rans said.

Rans said that if after calling the regulation to the attention of the retailer, a customer is unable to resolve the matter, he should contact his local Internal Revenue office. IRS telephone numbers are listed in the directory under U. S. Government, Internal Revenue Service, Economic Stabilization Program.

Forest Firewood Permits Available

Fire wood permits are now being issued for the Laguna Mountain area of the Cleveland National Forest. Permits can be obtained at the Ranger Station, 2707 Alpine Blvd. in Alpine, between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Permits will not be available on weekends or in the field.

Two areas have been designated for wood gathering. Four hundred free use permits will be issued in one area and four hundred $5 charge permits will be issued for the other area. Each permit is for one cord of dead and down wood. A family is limited to one cord of wood. The area for free permits was previously open for wood gathering. Wood is scattered and of low quality. In the charge area Forest Service crews have fallen trees killed by insects.

Wood in this area is more plentiful and of better quality. Patrolmen will be in the field to answer questions, enforce regulations and compliance with permit terms.

Further information may be obtained by calling 445-4133.

bought lots in Halecrest had been told that the property was in the Lemon Grove District. As a matter of fact, all were, except the 11 seeking transfer.

The school calendar for 1974-1975 was approved. It is identical with this year's in terms of teaching days and recommended local holidays. The Board also approved a "Walk for Mankind" to take

In early action by the Sheriff's department, deputies arrested massage parlor employees on three consecutive nights.

Arrested at Valley I Massage Parlor, 9740 Campo rd., Spring Valley, were females identified by officers as Catherine D. Meadows, 23, 2318 Polk st., San Diego; Debra L. Costew, 19, 3917 Conrad dr., Spring Valley, and Linda H. Childs, 25, 2469 Sumac dr., San Diego.

Arrests were made on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday last week alleging prostitution.

'Conflict' Rules Adopted By Helix Water District

Guidelines for implementing the California Governmental Conflict of Interest Act were adopted by the Helix Water District Board of Directors during its regular meeting last week.

Basically, the guidelines require a director or District officer to remove himself from participation in any discussion or action relating to a business from which he derives more than $250 a year income.

Under ruling by the District's General Counsel, Paul Engstrand, this requirement is interpreted to mean a director or officer must remove himself from the Board meeting room during discussion of matters where a conflict exists.

In other action, the Board approved amendments to the Environmental Quality Act guidelines. Most important change was to require a fuller explanation from the environmental analyst when he recommends a "negative declaration."

A negative declaration is a statement that a proposed project will have no significant effect on the environment. The Board also accepted a staff recommendation to refuse additional service to the Crest Public Utility District because of lack of capacity in the flume line.

Service is provided to Crest under an unusual annexation arrangement. Also approved was a bid of $182,857 by Long, Marker and Howley Construction Co. for replacing pipeline in five La Mesa areas. Next lowest bid was $5,000 higher.

Abandoned Car Law to be Revived

There may be a way to get rid of that old clunker deteriorating in the yard next door.

The County of San Diego is now enforcing the Abandoned Vehicle Abatement Ordinance in the unincorporated areas of the county.

The ordinance declares abandoned vehicles to be a public nuisance which may be abated, according to Case Houson, director of the County Department of Sanitation and Flood Control. It applies to any vehicle abandoned on public or private property.

Vehicles abandoned on highways, streets, and roads are not affected by this ordinance and will continue to be processed by the California Highway Patrol, County Sheriff, or local police department.

Houson said the abatement program will initially include only the unincorporated area but may eventually extend to cities desiring such a program.

Under the ordinance, abandoned vehicle investigators may enter public and private property to examine vehicles that appear to be abandoned or in response to complaints.

Houson said that in each case, the property owner and the registered owner of the vehicle will be notified before any action is taken.

"The owner may then make arrangements to dispose of the vehicle, repair it, or enclose it in a building," Houson said. "If the owner does not do so, the ordinance provides for delegated officers to remove the vehicle."

"With the assistance of interested citizens, we can eliminate up to 5,000 abandoned vehicles per year from the unincorporated area of the county," Houson said.

Residents wishing to report a nuisance, needing help in removing their own vehicle, or seeking further information may call the Abandoned Vehicle Group at 565-5814 or write to: AVA Program, County of San Diego, Department of Sanitation and Flood Control, 8995 Complex dr., San Diego, CA 92123.

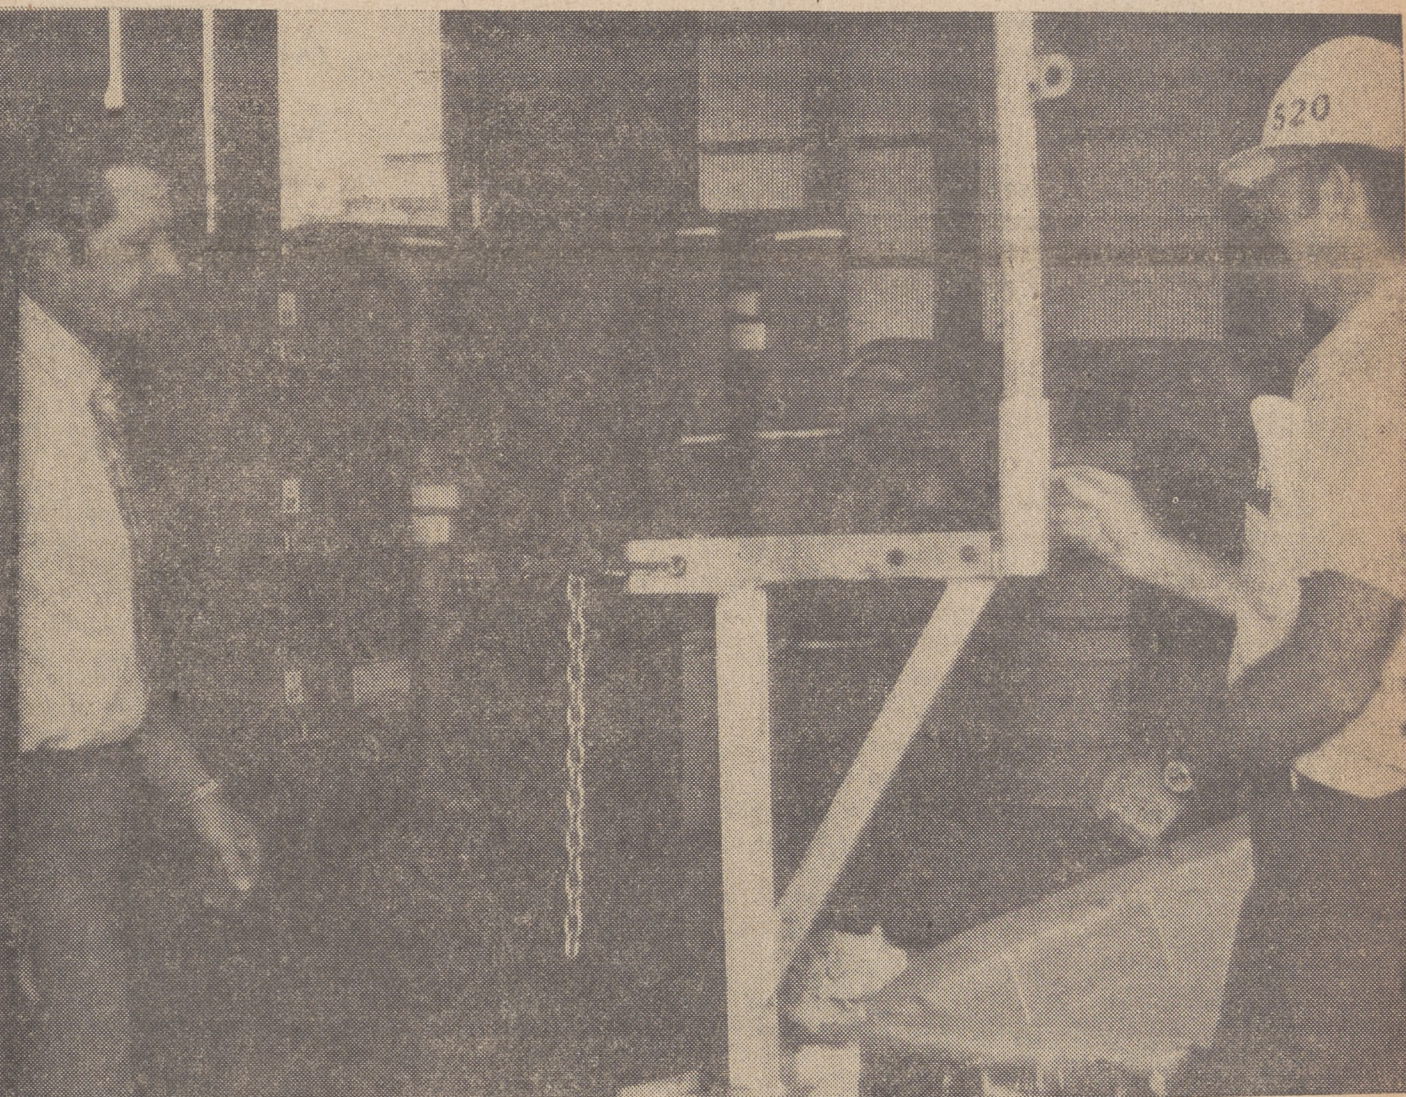

Light Rain Reported Here

A rain that stayed mostly in the drizzle class fell Tuesday in the area. The local weather station measured it at .05 of an inch.

That brought the total to 6.13. Last year at the same time the total had reached 8.93.

Two night heavy fogs were noted last week, but they didn't contribute to the rainfall total either.

Rainfall seasons start July

INVENTORS AND INVENTION — Engineering Technician Allen Peters (left) of 3855 Calavo dr., Spring Valley and Sheetmetal Foreman Bill Ryan of 1039 Lincoln st., San Diego demonstrate their invention, the Scaffolding Support Bracket. Both men are Navy civil service employees serving the San Diego Navy Public Works Center based aboard the Naval Station.

S.V. Man Wins Scaffold Patent

An area resident and a Navy civil service employee front work site was considered somewhat dangerous.

Previously, PWC San Diego on occasion spent thousands of dollars in the preparation of scaffolding. Manpower savings is another significant factor. Previously four men were required to do the work which can now be accomplished by two men and in a significantly shorter period of time.

The bracket provides an adjustable, stable work platform for personnel. It can be installed in a level position when attached to a non-vertical support object such as piling around and under piers. It provides a platform that can be quickly installed and removed, can be used in relatively inaccessible areas and can be reused over and over again.

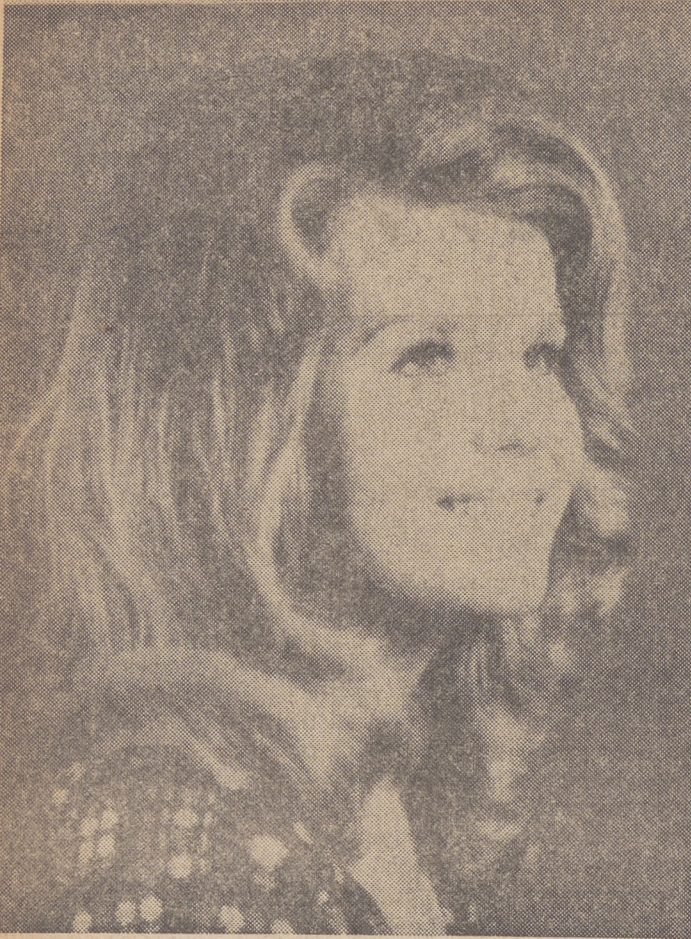

The bracket, when clamped to the piling offers adjustment capability as required. This provides the desired stability and a level supported surface. When a rubber boot adapter is used, the bracket demands in excess of $10,000 a year. This savings, in part, is reflected by the elimination of the previous need for one-time use of lumber material in construction of makeshift scaffolding. Manpower savings is another significant factor. Previously four men were required to do the work which can now be accomplished by two men and in a significantly shorter period of time.

Teachers of elective subjects at Monte Vista are making video-tape explanations of their classes for the students. Tapes are being shown to classes this month and next, preparatory to advance sign-up for fall classes.

In the past schedule changes have resulted from student's non-awareness of class content. Video tapes are expected to reduce indecision.

PERRY PHRASES

by Perry Covert

ON THE PERI-METER

You only have to go to near-by La Mesa to find a true transplant of Old Gotham: "The Knish Joint", operated by Manny and Norma Fogulhut whose menu is reminiscent of the Stage Deli in Manhattan. Speaking of big menus, Norma says, "When I was a kid my mother always offered me two choices at dinner: Take it or leave it."

Candle-maker Steve Bates was aboard the bus when a young woman struggled aboard with packages and a small baby. As she pushed past the driver, she said she would return with the fare. Then she plunked her baby down on one man's lap.

Looking up at her somewhat shocked, the man said, "Why pick on me, lady?"

"Because you're the only one wearing a raincoat," she said sweetly.

PERI-PATETIC "About m' lady's facial creams I've only this to state, "Some come a trifle oily—And other's much too late."

PARA-GRAPHS

A comment on the "energy-crunch is in order just about here, we think. Visiting Lemon Grove's popular Chinese restaurant "Sam's Far East" yesterday, Sam was reminiscing with this writer. He remembers 'busing' was romantic. People young and old went sight seeing by bus just for the fun of it. Many a couple whiled away a Sunday afternoon holding hands side by side watching the scenery roll by right to the end of the line. Maybe that's not such a bad idea. See you on the bus . . .

So until next time friends let me leave you with this thought, written by VIC. B., otherwise anonymous but expressed so well . . . And when December disappears, Before the New Year's dawn, Be with me GOD and bless me with, The courage to go on.

however, very strong citizen input and support are needed. To learn what these proposed goals are, and to express your reactions to them, you should come to a special meeting of the Valle de Oro Planning Association set for 7:30 p.m. March 1, in the Monte Vista High School Gymnasium. Please come!

Cancer Group Aims For $650,000 in County Drive

Vincent E. O'Brien, Vice President and Manager of the Bank of California will serve as 1974 Crusade Chairman of the American Cancer Society's San Diego County Unit, it was announced by John T. P. Cudmore, M.D., President of the local unit. April is the National American Cancer Crusade month.

O'Brien will direct over 6,000 volunteers in the annual Cancer crusade. "Last year's County-wide effort raised $531,000, this year's goal has been set at $650,000," O'Brien said, "it will enable us to continue our programs in service and education and will make it possible for San Diego County to be one of the leading recipients as far as American Cancer Society research grants is concerned."

"In 1972-73 Public Education volunteers reached an audience of 120,490 youths with 2,730 programs on Cancer Education; 3,000 new patients received counseling and referral or information services," he continued, "all of this is made possible by our dedicated force of volunteers. Last December's CHANGING TIMES MAGAZINE listed the American Cancer Society as one of only seven health, welfare and wildlife organizations which met all the standards for honesty and efficiency in a rating chart for national charities."

"These days when there is grave concern by the general public how donations are used, this is very reassuring for volunteers of the American Cancer Society" O'Brien concluded.

Letters to the Editor

Editor: Elections are soon to be held for City Council positions in the cities of El Cajon and La Mesa, and for County Supervisorial positions as well. This is the time for the citizen-voter to most effectively make his wishes known.

Too many of the incumbents in these elective positions have promoted, or at least allowed, an excessive rate of growth in their respective jurisdictions. They have reasoned that rapid growth and industrial development are good for business and will produce increased revenues from property and sales taxes. This same reasoning has prevailed in the Los Angeles area. How many of us would like to live in that megalopolis?

If you believe that a change of direction is needed, in order to maintain the quality of life we now enjoy here, you must make your voice heard, and your vote felt.

If you live in the unincorporated area generally south of El Cajon and La Mesa, and including Casa de Oro, Spring Valley, Grossmont-Mount Helix, Shadow Hills - Horizon Hills; you can make your voice heard through the Valle de Oro Planning Association, a citizens planning group recognized by the county Board of Supervisors. This group has worked very hard for more than eighteen months to develop a set of planning goals. These goals, which are based on a careful study of the responses to 19,000 questionnaires mailed to area residents, will when approved have a very substantial influence on the future of this area. For maximum influence PROMOTION AND NAMED DIVISION DIRECTOR — Mrs. Nickie Bruso of 8064 Drexel ct., Lemon Grove is promoted and named a division director with the San Diego Navy Public Works Center based aboard the Naval Station. She is one the three Navy civil service women employees holding key management jobs with this Navy command.

Mrs. Bruso Named to Head Material Secion For Navy

A Lemon Grove woman has been promoted to the post of division director at the San Diego Navy Public Works at the Naval Station.

Mrs. Nickie Bruso, of 8064 Drexel court, will now head the Navy Public Works San Diego Material Requirements Division within the Command's Material Department.

In her new job she'll lead and supervise 25 people, both men and women, making up three branches within the Material Department. She brings 23 years of experience in Federal service to her new job and has served PWC San Diego for the past 10 years.

But no one walks into a manager's job full-blown and without adequate preparation. All of the past periods of training and educational studies are now paying dividends for her in promotion and higher salary. This includes instruction at Southwestern College, San Diego State College, extension courses at University of California at San Diego, and others. According to the record the major past emphasis has included courses on Management and Human Relations studies.

Management Course
Higher education is a never-ending thing with Nickie Bruso. Presently, she's attending a month-long course of instruction involved in the Defense Procurement Management Course at the Army Logistics Management Center.

'Miss La Mesa' Sought
Poise, personality and beauty of face and figure are what the judges look for in a beauty contest and the Jewel of the Hills will soon be crowning a new Miss La Mesa for 1974.

The annual pageant, which is presented in conjunction with the County's Fairest of the Fair will be held Sunday, March 24 at 2 p.m. at Grossmont Gardens, 5480 Marengo. "Contestants will be presented in a garden setting near the pool which we feel is much more relaxed and casual for all concerned," said Lillian Lehen, Chairman.

Girls wishing to enter the contest must be between the ages of 17 and 21 and reside in La Mesa. Because of school boundaries in the high schools there have been some problems in the past. The Special Events Committee will determine the eligibility of an entry if there is any question. Applications are available at the La Mesa Chamber of Commerce, 8155 University avenue and will be accepted no later than March 18th.

Susan Freeman Home Ec. Winner

Senior Susan Freeman recently placed in the 99 percentile in a nation-wide home economics test, and was awarded the title of Monte Vista's Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Don Freeman of Jamul. The examination, held last December, was designed to test the students' written knowledge and attitude covering various facets of home making.

Susan will now advance to state-wide competition with winners like herself, where scholarships of up to $1500 will be given out. State winners will go on to the national level, where their awards can be raised to as much as $5000.

Over 700,000 seniors entered this year's contest, including senior males.

Susan will also compete for the California Home Economics Association Scholarship. When she graduates, she plans to major in home economics.

Beach Walk to Aid March of Dimes

Young citizens of San Diego will be taking off on a 20-mile hike Saturday.

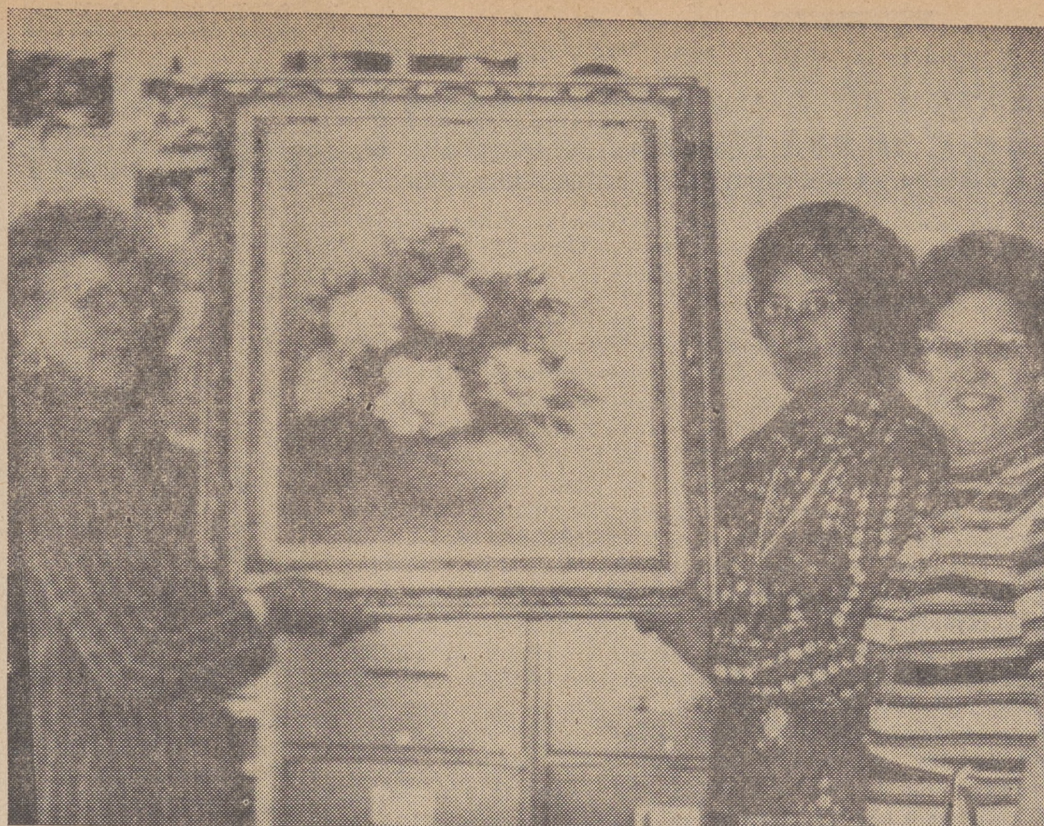

But they won't be walking just to conserve fuel, to benefit ecology or to enhance their health. The goal of these young people is to do their thing to aid some 250,000 children who are born each year with birth defects.

The March of Dimes Beach Walk is scheduled to start at Kate O. Sessions Park in Pacific Beach and Ocean Beach Park from 8 to 10 a.m., rain or shine.

The charity affair, which is expected to attract well over 1,000 walkers, will cover a course which includes Laumont, Diamond, Fanuel and Dawes streets, Garnet and Grand avenues, Mission Beach, Sunset Cliffs and West Point Loma boulevards and West Mission Bay drive.

Sponsors for these participants will agree to pledge money to the March of Dimes for each mile completed. Money raised will help support research and medical service programs, many now being conducted at the UCSD, Scripps Research and Clinic Foundation, Children's Hospital and the Calk Institute for Biological Studies.

A medical aid crew from the 185th Army of the National Guard and members of the San Diego Division, California Podiatry Association, will be included among 40 volunteers who will man check points, provide refreshments and handle emergencies.

Younger Here For Annual Press Confab

by Max Goodwin
Attorney General Evelle Younger was in San Diego Monday for his third annual "Media Gathering."

The get-together, at 7 Seas-Hyatt House in Mission Valley, was mostly social but a few minutes were contributed to achievements and problems of the attorney general's office.

During an informal discussion Younger reminded that there are 7,000 cases, mostly welfare on the AG's docket. His record for such cases is winning 11 out of 12, he said.

He also noted that the crime rate in California is down for the first time in 13 years. He said that better laws and more effective law enforcement were contributing factors.

On subjects that the attorney general's office faces were: Laws regarding the energy crisis. These have to do with crimes resulting from brown-outs or rolling blackouts; and matters involving enforcement of state energy office regulations; Consumer protests resulting from distorted merchandising practices as prices rise will occupy much of the AG's time. And as important as any is the group he calls the forgotten minority — those over 65 years of age. "Many of these people don't get away from home. They are easy victims of the dishonest appliance and teevee repair practitioners," he said. Consumer protection and concern for the elderly will grow as inflation grows, he said.

The Monday meeting was one rescheduled near the end of the year. The holiday meeting was cancelled after Younger's plane was grounded in Sacramento due to fog. He also made the point that media gatherings were not

CALPRIG To Profile County Politicians

An intense evaluation of the County Board of Supervisors and local representatives to the State Assembly and Senate was launched this week by the California Public (CALPRIG).

Interest Research Group CALPRIG researchers, headed by a political science lecturer at San Diego State, Judy Aboud, will prepare and publish detailed reports of their findings.

Investigators will profile the political backgrounds, including voting and attendance records, campaign fund sources and standing on specific issues of the legislators' careers.

"The profiles will be in-depth reports modeled after those prepared by consumer advocate Ralph Nader's 'Congress Watch' project in 1972," Ms. Aboud said.

Research Deep
The unique element of the project, according to Ms. Aboud, will be the intensity of CALPRIG investigations. "We will not stop with a superficial check of easily accessible records," she said.

Researchers, mostly college students, will also conduct personal interviews with each office-holder.

The profiles will be published in May, and will be available to the public and through public and college libraries.

Besides the County Supervisors, CALPRIG will profile five State Assemblymen and three State Senators from local districts. Ms. Aboud said that if funds permit, reports will also be prepared for the major challengers for each office in November general elections.

The Supervisors to be checked are: Jack Walsh, Dick Brown, Lou Conde, James Bear and Lee Taylor. Bear and Taylor face re-election in June.

State Assemblymen are: Bob Wilson, Wadie Deddeh, Larry Kapiloff, Peter Chacon and William Craven.

State Senators to be profiled are: John Stull, Jack Schrade and James Mills.

The Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra plans to tour Europe in 1974.

Mondale Here For Van's 'Sixth Gala'

Van Deerlin supporters are in an enthusiastic rut.

On Saturday the Committee to Re-elect Congressman Lionel Van Deerlin presented its "Sixth American Gala" for him — and if the group's enthusiasm is any indication, there will be eight or ten more.

As usual, it was held in Hotel del Coronado's famed Crown Room. The elegant room which glows with historic beauty, lends itself admirably to high political events. In this case, it was U. S. Senator Walter E. Mondale of Minnesota who was guest speaker and his remarks were aimed at the highest office in the land — the presidency — an office he may be seeking in 1976.

"We (Washington) got into trouble when we called a lie a credibility gap," Mondale said. "Now we have to demand honesty in the highest levels of government."

"With the biggest wheat crop in history we expect food prices to soar. We face rising unemployment. No steps have been useful in controlling the energy shortage. Inflation is running wild. Those with $12,000 income must have $13,000 this year just to stay even. People are asking 'Do they care for me at all?'"

"The administration does not have answers for these problems," he said.

Mondale said the nation must concern itself with the key principle of the Constitution which is accountability and never again have a strong man in the White House who feels he is above the law. He must be under the law and accountable to the American people.

Robert R. (Dusty) Rhodes introduced guests at Saturday's Gala.

Assemblyman Wadie Dedeh was master of ceremonies. Congressman Van Deerlin did not deny that he would seek office in the 41st Congressional District.

His appearance and short speech was in keeping with the dignity of the historic Crown Room.

School Editor Views the Q's

A Point Loma High School Senior, who is sports editor of the school's newspaper, was recently the guest of the Conquistadors, San Diego's ABA professional team. Here are his impressions following his first view of a pro team.

by Steve Rossie

Point Loma High School
On an 11-man professional team, all the players are good. Lousy ones don't make it. To be on the pro roster you've got to be among the cream of the crop even though your pro record may not show it.

This was made a point during the game I attended when the Conquistadors met the Indiana Pacers Feb. 13.

The Pacers won the game on a dominant third quarter after trailing in the third period by a much as 10 points. The Q's went flat and the Pacers became invincible. The final score—128-119.

Even though the Q's are keepers of the cellar in the ABA western division, it's hard to view them as being anything like bad. They had won five for six coming into the Pacer match. They played a quick, high-scoring and exciting game for three periods. But the short roster caught up with them. Both the offensive and defensive units seemed to wilt (no pun intended). Then they blew it in the last period.

I am a high school sports editor at Point Loma. I'm not used to seeing the best basketball in town. But I sure liked the atmosphere the San Diego Conquistadors offered. Unlike the Chargers, the Q's have a fair owner and a good coach — Wilt Chamberlain. When I took my seat at the Q's press table, I was sitting right next to Wilt, himself. Regardless of the score, Chamberlain kept good rapport with the players. The club, though young, had a positive attitude throughout the tilt. This is the kind of attitude that will make them leaders in future years.

The presence of Chamberlain motivates such fine players as Caldwell Jones, Stew Johnson and Bo Lamar. One can't help wondering how high the team will be when "the Stilt" dons his uniform. What a team it'll be M.G. then.

TAX ANSWERS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. My wife receives no pay for the charity work she does for a local hospital. Yet she incurs expenses for traveling from home to the hospital, paying for her lunches and hiring someone to take care of the children while she's at the hospital. Are these expenses deductible as charitable contributions?
A. If the hospital is a qualified charitable organization, non-reimbursed out-of-pocket, automobile expenses directly attributable to services rendered to the hospital are deductible as a charitable contribution. Actual expenses or a standard rate of six cents per mile may be deducted. However, the cost of lunches (unhard to view them as being anything like bad. They had won five for six coming into the Pacer match. They played a quick, high-scoring and exciting game for three periods. But the short roster caught up with them. Both the offensive and defensive units seemed to wilt (no pun intended). Then they blew it in the last period.

Q. My adjusted gross income is $13,000. Can I get the $2,000 standard deduction?
A. No. The standard deduction is 15 percent of your adjusted gross income up to a $2,000 maximum. Fifteen percent of $13,000 is $1,950. This is your standard deduction.

Q. Are "tips" taxable?
A. All tips you receive are subject to Federal income tax. In addition, cash tips amounting to $20 or more that you receive in a month while working for any one employer are subject to withholding of income and social security tax. These tips must also be reported to the employer.

Q. I sold my home last fall at a big profit. I am going to use the money to get another house. Should I report the gain from the sale of my old home on my 1973 return?
A. If within one year before or one year after the sale, you buy and occupy another residence, the cost of which equals or exceeds the adjusted sales price of the old residence, the entire gain you realize on the sale or exchange is not taxed at the time of the sale and would not have to be reported on your tax return. For more details, see IRS Publication 523, "Tax Information on Selling Your Home." Use the order blank in your 1040 tax form package to get a free copy.

Q. Where can I get information on the tax obligations of operating a business?
A. Stop in at your IRS office or post office and pick up a copy of the "Tax Guide for Small Business" (Publication 334). This booklet, which costs $1, will aid you in finding the answer to the tax questions that arise when starting, operating and disposing of a business. The publication is also available by mail from the Superintendent of Documents in Washington, D.C., for $1.25 postpaid.

Q. How can I tell whether I should itemize my deductions or choose the standard deduction.
A. It usually will be to your advantage to itemize deductions if you are a homeowner paying interest and taxes; you had unusually large medical and dental expenses during the year; you paid alimony, suffered a major unusual casualty loss or made large contributions to qualified charities. Your tax form instructions contain a formula you may use to determine whether you should itemize or take the standard deduction.

Posedel Named Padres New Pitching Coach

Bill Posedel, former pitching coach of the Oakland Athletics and a scout for the A's last season, has been named as the new pitching coach of the San Diego Padres, Pete Bavasi, Padres general manager announced.

The 67-year-old Posedel served as the pitching coach of the A's from 1968 through 1972 and then last season assumed the role of scout.

While serving as the A's pitching coach he helped develop the nucleus of the staff which carried Oakland to a pair of world championships. Included amongst the pitchers he is credited with developing are Jim "Catfish" Hunter, Jim Nash, John "Blue Moon" Odom and Vida Blue.

A five-year veteran in the Majors, Posedel pitched for the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1933 and then was with the Boston Braves from 1939-41 and then in 1946. He spent the period from 1942-45 in the military. Posedel compiled a record of 41-43 in his five years including a 15-13 mark in 1939 with Boston.

Posedel spent all seasons in the minor leagues and had back-to-back 20-win seasons in 1936 and 1937 with Portland of the Pacific Coast League. He finished at 20-10 in 1936 and then came right back with a 21-12 slate the following year. His minor league record was 109-96.

Now in his fourth decade in organized baseball, Posedel has either coached or scouted for seven different major league clubs since retiring as an active player after the 1947 season.

The appointment of Posedel virtually completes the Padres coaching staff as only a bullpen coach, to be named during spring training, needs to be named to round out the staff.

Plant Swap Planned

The Spring Valley Plant club will have a plant swap meet Saturday at the Mayfair Market parking lot, 9665 Campo rd., Casa de Oro.

The public is invited to bring plants, cuttings or seeds for swapping. The meet will be from 9 a.m. 'til noon.

MUSIC, GRADES, SPORTS ROGER HAS ALL THREE

Roger Reinecke is a young completing high school.

Grossmont student who juggles three talents at once. Not only is he a scholar and athlete, but he finds time to play the trumpet as well. Roger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reinecke of 8321 Mt. Vernon, Lemon Grove.

As the high point man on the Grossmont varsity soccer team, Roger follows in the footsteps of his older brother Richard who held that position in 1972. The Grossmont soccer team won 11 out of 12 games in league competition and is participating in CIF playoffs presently.

Tennis is another sport Roger participates in, and he is a member of the varsity squad. Roger says he has found that of all sports, soccer and tennis are the ones which allow him to excel in spite of his slight stature. He feels they are two sports that emphasize skill rather than size.

As a straight A student, Roger plans on attending SDSU, and study law, after participating in Rose Bowl activities in Pasadena this past winter.

Roger's family has been a source of much encouragement. His whole family attends each soccer match, and his brother Richard, who will be attending Southern Illinois University on a soccer scholarship, coaches him after school.

Records Fall at Track Meet

It was an outstanding indoor track meet.

Fifteen records were broken; two were tied.

Six thousand people came to watch. The turn-out was disappointing although it attracted more media attention than any of the previous indoor meets.

The energy-economics crunch probably cut into the attendance.

No such problems bothered the contestants.

Each had thoughts only of winning his event in the Eighth Annual Indoor Track meet Sunday at the Sports Arena.

But the events were glorious. The audience stood and applauded as records fell. Dr. Tony Suec and the San Diego Track Club had reason to be proud of the production.

Spoiler Only Role Left for State Cagers
With the role of spoiler about the only thing remaining for San Diego State's basketball team in the PCAA race, the Aztecs will try to knock leading playoff candidate UC Santa Barbara from its perch tonight at 8 p.m. in UCSB's Robertson Gym.

The Gauchos of Santa Barbara are 14-8 overall and 5-2 in PCAA games that count toward an NCAA playoff berth.

San Diego State got in the spoilers mood last week by virtually knocking Fresno State out of the PCAA race with an 80-78 win in Fresno. Archer Named Powell is regarded as one of the finest archers in the annals of that sport and has brought San Diego national recognition during his years of competition. Although he was nearly 40 before he took up archery, his talents were such that he became almost invincible during the 1950s. He won the national championship in 1951 and repeated during the years 1953 through 1956. He finished second in 1952 and again in 1957 and 1958.

No archer in modern history has matched that record, and for his amazing performances Powell was voted into the National Archery Hall of Fame at Grayling, Mich. last year. The former Navy man also has won numerous sectional and international events and has been honored by the California Archery Association.

Full color portraits of each will be placed alongside those of other famed San Diego athletes in the Hall of Fame section of the San Diego Hall of Champions in Balboa Park.

At the banquet the community also will honor a host of other sports celebrities, including the great U.C.L.A. basketball ace Bill Walton and Los Angeles Rams quarterback John Hadl, who were elected amateur and professional Stars of the Year, respectively, for 1973.

Calland, a San Diego resident since he assumed duties as football coach at San Diego State in 1935, is among the all-time linemen at University of Southern California where is not only lettered for three varsity seasons as a center but also earned a matching number of awards in basketball.

While a senior in 1922 he captained the Trojan football team which defeated Penn State 14-3 in the Rose Bowl, and that same year he had the unique distinction of being the team's unpaid varsity line coach.

As player of the game in U.S.C.'s victory over Penn State, Calland has been named to the Rose Bowl Hall of Fame.

His entire career has been dedicated to athletics and recreation and prior to coming to San Diego he had held coaching positions at the University of Idaho, U.S.C., Whittier College and Paige Military Academy. After World War II duty as a Navy commander, he was San Diego

VFW Marks 75th Birthday This Week

1974 marks the 75th anniversary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The VFW, which provides service for veterans, their dependents, and survivors, will celebrate its Diamond Jubilee Year during National VFW week, February 17-23.

Founded in 1899 by a dozen Spanish American War veterans in a Columbus, Ohio drug store, the VFW has grown to a 1.8 million member organization. Today the VFW is the fastest growing veterans organization in the United States.

The VFW is presently engaged in a wide variety of service activities including the Information Desk in community improvement, patriotism, traffic safety and youth work. The VFW has also been instrumental in aiding the veteran through establishment of VA hospitals, and other facilities.

Ms. Carlisle Weaver, an officer of the First District VFW Auxiliary reports that Diamond Jubilee Year will be highlighted at the 75th Annual National Convention in Chicago August 16-23. The U. S. Postal Service will issue a special commemorative stamp honoring the anniversary as well.

These passports may also be obtained at any manned entrance station approaching a park.

Banquet of Champions To Fete Grid Star, Archer

Footballer Leo Calland and Park and Recreation Director "Rube" Powell will join other elite members of the San Diego Hall of Fame in induction ceremonies highlighting the 28th annual Banquet of Champions at the Town and Country Convention Center Monday night.

Selection of the two new Hall of Famers was announced by the Breitbard Athletic Foundation after they had topped their divisions in the annual balloting. Calland was named among the seniors, those who distinguished themselves in sports more than 25 years ago, while Powell headed the current list.

Full color portraits of each will be placed alongside those of other famed San Diego athletes in the Hall of Fame section of the San Diego Hall of Champions in Balboa Park.

At the banquet the community also will honor a host of other sports celebrities, including the great U.C.L.A. basketball ace Bill Walton and Los Angeles Rams quarterback John Hadl, who were elected amateur and professional Stars of the Year, respectively, for 1973.

Calland, a San Diego resident since he assumed duties as football coach at San Diego State in 1935, is among the all-time linemen at University of Southern California where is not only lettered for three varsity seasons as a center but also earned a matching number of awards in basketball.

While a senior in 1922 he captained the Trojan football team which defeated Penn State 14-3 in the Rose Bowl, and that same year he had the unique distinction of being the team's unpaid varsity line coach.

As player of the game in U.S.C.'s victory over Penn State, Calland has been named to the Rose Bowl Hall of Fame.

His entire career has been dedicated to athletics and recreation and prior to coming to San Diego he had held coaching positions at the University of Idaho, U.S.C., Whittier College and Paige Military Academy. After World War II duty as a Navy commander, he was San Diego

These items, which are renovated and sold in ten Army thrift stores, are the life blood of the Army's Men's Rehabilitation Center programs and provide its sole support.

Major Harland Hall, the Center's director, said those with donations could aid in the emergency by placing items in Salvation Army drop boxes located in supermarket and shopping center parking lots.

Hall said there are 110 boxes marked with the Army's familiar red shield located throughout the county.

"We are also suggesting that individuals with discards to donate contact their neighbors for similar items so that our trucks can make pick-ups from several families in a single stop."

The Army's fleet of thirteen trucks is operating on 3,600 gallons of fuel a month, about 600 gallons short of its minimum needs.

He said he has also had to eliminate six night time runs to drop boxes and combine these with regular day time routes with a resultant slow down in home pick ups.

Park Passports
Now Available
Superintendent Thomas R. Tucker announced that Golden Eagle and Golden Age Passports are now available at the Information Desk in the Visitor Center at Cabrillo National Monument.

The Golden Age Passports so been instrumental in aiding the veteran through establishment of VA hospitals, and other facilities.

Ms. Carlisle Weaver, an officer of the First District VFW Auxiliary reports that Diamond Jubilee Year will be highlighted at the 75th Annual National Convention in Chicago August 16-23. The U. S. Postal Service will issue a special commemorative stamp honoring the anniversary as well.

These passports may also be obtained at any manned entrance station approaching a park.

Mileage Critical as Speed In Ontario Speedway '500'

ONTARIO, Calif. — Mark Donohue admits the California 500 has him stumped.

He's not alone, of course. The season's opening race at Ontario Motor Speedway Sunday, March 10, has presented a unique and quite perplexing problem to all of its competitors.

In brief, they must average 1.8 m.p.g. of methanol fuel or their allotment of 280 gallons won't last 500 miles. That means improving their 1973 fuel mileage by nearly a half-mile per gallon.

And for Donohue to admit he's groping — and he does — only gives real dimensions to the problem.

There is probably no man in the history of motor sports who has injected more science into the preparation and driving of race cars than this 36-year old engineering graduate of Brown University.

It is not nearly as simple as finding more top speed, or cutting down lap times, which are the usual pre-race challenges, according to Donohue.

Won 1972 Indy
"We can do those things," said the recently retired winner of the 1972 Indianapolis 500 who now directs all racing operations for the Roger Penske team.

And it is a lot more involved than just cutting back speed or horsepower in the 900-horsepower Drake racing engines, Donohue adds.

He made his observations while he and team driver Gary Bettenhausen worked on various combinations during a recent test session at Ontario.

"So far this has been our biggest effort here," Donohue said. "We're looking for ways to get the most speed from the mileage we've been saddled with, based on the amount of fuel allotted."

"This has never been a problem before. So we're somewhat in the same position we were a few years ago with the wings. At first, we weren't quite sure how to deal with them."

That the obvious measures to improve mileage "don't work the way they should" has thickened the plot for the California 500.

"We're groping around trying to find out what the combination is to get to the magic number . . . 1.8," Donohue continued. "It's a really big problem. Just turning back the 'screw' doesn't seem to work."

'Screw' Controls Boost

The "screw" he refers to is the mechanical regulating of the amount of "boost" or pressure used in the turbochargers which ram the air-fuel mixture into the engines. The higher number — in inches of mercury — the higher the horsepower, and the speed. The figures have been in the 90 inches range, but now are sinking below 70 inches.

Super-Star Status For Cues' Caldwell Jones?

NEW YORK — Wilbert Jones knew last June when he was going one-on-one against Brother Caldwell who is now a star with the S.D. Conquistadors.

Wilt Chamberlain knew as soon as he saw him in the Baker League last summer.

The San Diego Conquistadors found out in training camp in September.

And now the rest of the American Basketball Association knows.

Caldwell Jones has super-center written all over his lanky, 6-11 frame.

Within the space of nine months, Caldwell Jones has gone from an unknown no one thought could make the pros to one of the outstanding centers in the league.

Although still a relatively raw, shy rookie, he has taken the shot-blocking lead away from Kentucky's dominating Artis Gilmore with 227 in 57 games and he ranked third in the ABA this week in rebounding with 12.9 a game.

His scoring average also has risen to a respectable 13.1 points a game on a team loaded with scorers.

"He looks just super," says 6-8 older brother Wilbert, one of the top forwards in the league with the Memphis Tams. "I've been watching him play since last June. We used to go one-on-one and despite his size he is so agile that I had trouble getting away from him."

Puts On Pounds
"He also put on 10-15 pounds to make him stronger and further improved himself by playing in the Baker League in Los Angeles last summer."

"I was really looking forward to seeing him play in the pros. It angered me that people said he couldn't play, but I always knew he could. He hasn't surprised me at all."

Chamberlain, the coach of the Q's, also saw Caldwell in the Baker League and immediately wanted him.

"I really liked what I saw," Wilt says. "He was young and inexperienced, but he had the talent."

The Q's lured him away from the training camp of the Philadelphia 76ers of the NBA. They also were highly impressed with the youngster, who like brother Wilbert went to Albany State in Georgia.

In the San Diego training camp, Caldwell quickly won over his new teammates during a two-on-one drill when he dunked over Wilt. He followed that with another dunk up to his elbows over another player.

"He can really get up and down the floor, too," said a teammate, knowing that Caldwell is the perfect center for the fast-breaking Q's.

Just Wants To Play
As for Caldwell himself, "all I wanted to do was play, and I didn't care where. I had made up my mind in the summer to prove myself."

He is particularly proud of his dunking ability, although

"So far, for every good theory we've tried that seems to make sense in improving mileage, we've found they don't work the way we thought they would. So we're finding out we're not the experts we thought we were."

In the past two years, cars have been averaging 195-200 m.p.h. around the 2½-mile Ontario oval. Drivers have estimated that this time racing speeds may drop as much as 20-25 m.p.h. to conserve fuel.

"Right now we're in the 1.5 m.p.g. range and haven't figured a good way to get that to 1.8," Donohue said.

"The impression everybody has is that the speed should be about 180. Well, we can get fairly close to the number at 180, but just can't get to it. Still 175 doesn't seem to do it either."

"So, it just doesn't seem to be as related to speed and horsepower as we thought."

Donohue says the answer lies somewhere in the "setup of the motor and the car together."

he emphasizes that he isn't trying to outdunk anyone. "They just don't let you dunk in college, so I've been waiting a long time. You have to take advantage of every chance you get. I also like to excite the crowd a little, and it gets me psyched up. I can dunk cradling the ball in my elbow," he says.

But defense and blocking shots are his big talents, even against Wilt.

"Our mother told us to go easy on each other," Caldwell smiles, "but . . ."

He's blocked two or three of his 22-year-old Wilbert's shots.

"I'm just like anyone else on the court. He didn't rub it in then, but I know I'll hear about it next summer. He'll be teaching me now."

Caldwell Jones was one of seven players who retained their statistical leads this week. The only change was in the hot scoring race as Dan Issel of Kentucky edged ahead of Julius Erving of the Nets by the smallest of margins, 27.38 points a game to 27.37.

Issel took the lead again by scoring 88 points in three games last week while Erving managed 58 in two outings. Erving led 27.32 to 27.27 last week.

The other leaders remained Artis Gilmore of Kentucky in rebounding, 19.93; Swen Nater of San Antonio in 2-Pt. FG shooting, 55.8%; Kentucky's Louie Dampier in 3-Pt. FG accuracy, 39.6%; James Jones of Utah in free throw shooting, 89.2%; Chuck Williams of Kentucky in assists, 6.66; and Ted McClain of Carolina in steals, 19.1.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

Shades of the goddest Wyrd, the ancient guide of fate, we can not see the cause of our affliction. The curse is there and we must free the remedy from its entanglement.

Look at our despair. The Padres. The Chargers. The Gulls. Even, if you will, look at Lennie Bloom's strange fly-by-night franchise with the funny ball and the funnier name. Are they natural losers? Must all our hopes be dashed? Is there a devil in their soul?

It makes sense to view things that way. Could it be that poor shooting and a murderous road schedule had nothing to do with the El Floppo recently logged by the Gulls as they lost their commanding lead in the Western Hockey League wars?

Pish and Tush, brother. I don't believe it. I hold the devil made 'em do it.

And the same for the Chargers. Could not all the insults, chants of four more years, fights in the stands, yes, and even the firing of poor Harland Svare be spin-offs of misdirected blame. Could it be, the Chargers, man and boy, had no say. Could it be they were doomed. Was there evil among 'em?

And the Padres? Who in good consciousness can argue they have not been possessed? In every crucial play, for as long as they have been among us, the Padres have had the uncanny ability to turn a bad situation worse.

And, unlike the Gulls, the Padres have been able to bomb equally well at home as on the road, a trick recently copied by the Chargers.

The incidents are almost limitless. One particularly comes to mind with the swiftness of light.

The Montreals were winning 3-1, but in the top of the seventh, Don Zimmer's Padres had loaded the bases with no outs and Jerry Morales worked Baylor Moore for a two ball count. That's when it happened.

Expos' head master Gene Mauch was said to invoke a plea to the Norse god Thor, son of Odin, to take the form and person of Mike Marshall. Witnesses swear they heard the crash of thunder as Marshall made his way in from the bullpen. The record speaks for itself.

With one pitch, much as Thor threw his hammer to kill Thrym in the fables of old, Marshall ended the inning.

Morales rapped weakly to Ron Hunt, who flipped the ball to Tim Foli, who relayed it to Mike Jorgensen, who, in turn, fired it to John Baccabella.

One heave and Marshall, or was it Thor, had a triple play. In addition to which, Foli dumped Number-11 Enzo so hard, the pride of Valle de Ganape, Venezuela stayed dumped for much of the rest of the campaign.

Is that possession. You bet your tinfole it is. From this view, it's possession and a half. It seems perfectly clear the gods, witches, warlocks, wizards, sorcerers and such like have had it in for San Diego sports and their followers.

How else do you explain it. Trading John Hadl. The strange case of Joe Danzansky and the Washington power flop. The Gulls yo-yo road trip. Or anything around or about Lennie Bloom.

In my bones I know that every dark of the moon Don Zimmer believes that evil demons dwell in San Diego Stadium and hold sway over Padre doings.

Look at the Wallers, Charlie and Ron. Both knew the bitter bite of the serpent of darkness. Both are brave men, but too much is enough already. You can not fight the unknown.

Until now. Baby, things have changed. It's happening. We got exorcism. We got 'em on television, in the movies, in the papers and on up turned garbage cans and soap boxes on almost every street corner around. We got a horde of self confessed miracle workers squeezing out of the woodwork to do battle with evil spirits. We got carpetbag preachers of all sizes and grades stepping to the front to give the devil his due.

The world hasn't seen this much exorcism since the Spanish Inquisition. Next up, we'll have 'em battling over the numbers of angels' legions able to dance on the head of a pin.

But . . . so be it. Let's drive the demons out. Bring back the stockades. Burn the witches. Let Salem live again. But give us a winner.

On to the ball parks and hockey rinks. Herd 'em up and drive the little devils out. Bring on these exorcists. Change it around. Turn us upside down, but see we get off at the World Series, The Super Bowl and the National Hockey League.

Then pass out the beer and Big Mac's, brother. It may be kin to the devil's own brew, but ain't watching the Padres win worth the price. It's not too late. But you gotta have faith. That's what the good book says.

Winning Habit Sought By Homecoming Gulls

Finishing up a schedule that saw the Gulls play nine of their last twelve games on the road, the locals will now be on home ice for five of the next six games.

Saturday the rivalry with the Salt Lake City Golden Eagles continues at the Sports Arena. Faceoff is set for 8.

Last week in Salt Lake the Gulls won by a 5-2 score in a game that saw 97 minutes in penalties called. The two clubs met again in Salt Lake on Friday with the Golden Eagles winning 5-4 in overtime. Going into action this week, Salt Lake is on top of the Western Hockey League with the Gulls two points behind in second place.

Sunday the Portland Buckaroos, currently holding down the fourth and final playoff spot in the WHL will play the Gulls at the Arena. That night will be team Pennant Night. The first 7000 fans entering the Arena will be given a beautiful team pennant, courtesy of the Gulls and Shaker's Pizza. Faceoff for the Sunday game is 7 p.m.

Defensesman John Miszuk has surpassed by two, the Gulls team record for assists. He now has 38, two more than any defenseman last year — namely J. Miszuk. He also holds the record for points scored by a Gull backliner: 47. Gordie Sinclair held the record with 43 back in 1968-69.

John Newcombe's Comeback Draws World's Best Netters

There have been countless comebacks in sports, some slow and some sudden and all the stuff out of which dreams and history are made.

But none was as decisive and any more deserving than the return to the top of the tennis world of John Newcombe.

The handsome, personable Australian, whose Davis Cup triumphs last fall rate highly among the year's most significant sports moments, will be one of several favorites in the $50,000 Michelob Pro-Celebrity Tennis Classic February 25-March 3 at La Costa Hotel and Spa.

Also in the tournament field, rated as the strongest assembled for the Michelob Classic, is Stan Smith, whom Newcombe defeated during Davis Cup competition.

"We very well could have the first return meeting of Newcombe and Smith, the 'dream' match of all tennis today," says Vic Braden, noted tennis teacher and tournament manager.

After his 1971 Wimbledon victory, the third time he won that prestigious event, Newcombe found winning less than a regular activity.

The ugly rumors and the spotted speculation grew. Some said his game had declined. Some offered physical reason for his losing record. But Newcombe did not sustain such comment. Newcombe defended Newcombe.

"All during that time, I tried to convince people that my game was not that poor. I attempted to reason that a person can't win all the time, that I would win my share soon," Newcombe recalls.

Few believed. "I became more positive, maybe just to convince myself but also because I believed my game was not as 'off' as people said."

He Came Back

Newcombe told the tennis public that he would be back winning and then, suddenly, he was.

From last July he nearly was unbeatable. He won the U. S. Open, defeating Kodes in five sets, beating Rosewall who hadn't lost a set, in straight sets in the semis and Connors in the quarters. He won two other tournaments, was runner-up in seven Afternoon sessions Monday through Friday, February 25-March 1, will start at 1 o'clock. Saturday and Sunday matches begin at noon. Evening sessions will be held Monday through Friday and will begin at 7 o'clock.

All seats are reserved and ticket prices for the Monday-Thursday sessions (afternoon or evening) are $4, $6 and $8. For Friday (afternoon or evening), Saturday and Sunday matches tickets are $6, $8 and $10.

Dave Love to Star in Coliseum 'Fan Night'

Happiness is a boxing fan with $2 in his pocket and an exciting boxing card where all the seats are $2.

That's what fight entrepreneur Mickey Davies has planned for the Coliseum Friday night.

He calls it Fan Appreciation Night and all seats, including ringside, will be $2.

The card will be outstanding. David Love, San Diego's sterling middleweight, will meet Chu Cho Garcia of Reynosa, Mexico.

Love is on a come-back trail having suffered three losses in a row before handing Jose Martin Flores a good lacing two weeks ago. The test will be tough. Chu Cho has fought seven years against the best in the profession. He sports a 34-15-5 and has never been knocked off his feet.

Tickets should be acquired early to assure close-up seats. Last week, on Friday, was heavyweight night. San Diego's premiere heavyweight, Kenny Norton, who will attempt to win the heavyweight title from George Foreman, March 26, in Caracas, Venezuela, put on an excellent six round exhibition with two sparring partners. He looked impressive. He walks, talks and moves like a champion.

In the exhibition, he intentionally took several flurries of body punches to help toughen up his body. It didn't seem to need it. Norton has a muscular body with a slim waist.

Friday's fan appeared convinced he can be the next champion.

Butts Shorten Bouts
Friday's main go left something to be desired — unless it was dancing that was desired. In it Tony Doyle of Salt Lake gained a unanimous decision over Richie Goshia of San Francisco. A butt in the sixth round opened a gash over Goshia's right eye. Otherwise it was all poke and clinch, a few dance steps, then poke and clinch again.

In the 10 round semi-main, Hildo Silva of San Diego was awarded a technical decision over Bobby Stewart of Los Angeles in the second round. Silva was ahead on points when ring doctor William Lundeen stopped the match. It was a head butt and a bleeding brow, similar to the one in the Doyle-Goshia bout.

San Diego bricklayer Sam

Celebrities who have been invited to participate in the $50,000 Pro-Celebrity Tennis Classic Feb. 25-March 3 at La Costa:

Charlton Heston, Johnny Carson, Burt Bacharach, Glenn Campbell, James Franciscus and Rod Seiger. Also: Clint Eastwood, David Hartman, Ross Martin, Lloyd Bridges, Beau Bridges and James Caan.

Also: Telly Savallas, Doug McClure, Dan Rowan and Merv Griffin.

Dave Love to Star in Coliseum 'Fan Night'

Wilson punched out a decision over Melvin Marshall of the Carlsbad Boys Club. Wilson was outclassed in the first round of the four round prelim. But Marshall tired quickly and Wilson took the last three. Marshall admitted later that his training had not been against a sparring partner.

In another four rounder, Al Boursse of Bakersfield decided Donnie Nelson of Phoenix.

Tickets to Friday's $2 fray ought to be nailed down early. The coliseum's phones are 232-8362 and 232-1904. The Coliseum is at 15th and E street in San Diego.

Friday, in a four-round curtain raiser, Bob Beverly and Jeff Priestly, both San Diego middleweights, will get the excitement started.

Then featherweights Nacho Magana, San Jose and Juan (Tiny) Hernandez, San Diego tangle in an eight-round semi final.

Another preliminary will be added to the show to complete the Friday card.

Hafey to Fight
Featherweight Art Hafey, probably as popular as any fighter in San Diego, will try to repeat his knockout over Ruben Olivares of Mexico March 4.

The fight will be in Los Angeles at the L.A. Forum.

Hafey stunned the boxing world when he KO'd the former bantamweight champ in five rounds September 15 in Monterrey, Mexico.

Hafey, from Nova Scotia but living in San Diego, has a 43-5-4 record with 22 knockouts. The knock-out record is phenomenal.

Listing Job Openings Cuts 'Wheel-spinning' Says Employment Chief

A way to save gas and speed the return to work of thousands of jobless workers was proposed by Dwight Geduldig, Director of the State's Employment Development Department.

"If California employers with job openings will list them with the nearest EDD field office, a lot of needless wheel-spinning by jobseekers could be avoided," Geduldig said.

"This not only would save gas — it takes advantage of a one-stop job exchange center in every community where employers could have immediate access to the largest supply of experienced workers seeking work."

"We have more than 170 employment offices located in all major communities. All of them have hundreds, some have thousands, of job-ready qualified workers on file. I urge all employers with job openings to take advantage of this large labor supply and also help alleviate some of the effects of the fuel crisis," he said.

"Job losses directly attributable to the fuel shortage are now running about 3,000 a week in California," Geduldig said. The job losses are occurring in all major industries — manufacturing, trade, transportation, utilities and tourist-related occupations in motels, hotels and restaurants.

The San Diego office is at 1354 Front st. and the telephone number is 236-7715. The El Cajon office is at 133 E. Park ave.

Drivers' Wrong Addresses May Lose Rationed Gas

More than a million California drivers may not get gasoline if their addresses are not up to date in the Department of Motor Vehicles computer, and mandatory gas rationing becomes a reality because of federal action, State Director of Motor Vehicles Robert Cozens warned.

Cozens estimated that from 10 to 20 percent of California's 12.6 million drivers' license records show an incorrect address.

"If an address is incorrect, ration authorization documents will be returned to the Department," he said.

Under the federal rationing plan as outlined recently, the authorization card and driver's license would be used as identification and authority to purchase gasoline ration coupons.

"It is imperative that the correct address be in our files. Drivers should notify the department of their new address as soon as possible after moving," he emphasized.

Gas Station Operator Indicted For Overcharge

A Federal Grand Jury in Los Angeles indicted a Downey gasoline station operator on six counts relating to alleged Economic Stabilization Act violations and falsifying records submitted to the Internal Revenue Service.

U. S. Attorney William D. Keller said that Robert Steffler, operator of two Chevron stations in Downey, is charged with submitting false and fraudulent records with regard to the sales price of gasoline at those stations.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Robert C. Bonner, who presented the case to the grand jury, stated that, if convicted, Steffler faces a maximum penalty of five years and/or $10,000 on each of two charges of violating Section 1001, Title 18 of the U. S. Code, making false statements to an agency of the United States. The four counts of Economic Stabilization Act violations carry maximum penalties of $5,000 each.

Veneman Files For Reelection

John G. Veneman, Republican candidate for Lt. Governor, claimed to be the first statewide candidate to file for office. He filed at 8 a.m. Feb. 11 at San Francisco's City Hall.

Calling himself an "Optimistic Republican", Veneman, 48, pledged an activist role as California's Lieutenant Governor.

"Solutions to our serious problems are bogged down because of the lack of coordination and communication between the executive and legislative branches of our State Government and the State and Federal Government. In my over 15 years of public service at local, state and federal levels, again and again I have seen effective programs abandoned and problems unanswered because there was no leadership in coordinating and bringing about compromises between branches and levels of government," he said.

Veneman, a 7-year veteran of the State Assembly, served as Chairman of the Assembly Committee on Revenue and Taxation and was instrumental in the development of the tax reform measure of 1967.

In Washington, as Under Secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Veneman was the administration's key spokesman for legislation dealing with Social Security, Medicare, National Health Insurance and Welfare Reform.

Balboa Park Tram Begins 10¢ Charge

The San Diego Park and Recreation Department is charging passengers 10 cents to ride the Balboa Park Tram. The charge was authorized by the City Council in January, to help defray the $150 a day cost of operating the Tram.

The Tram service was started in July 1973, after a portion of El Prado was closed to automobile traffic. The service was designed to bring persons, especially elderly and very young, from outlying parking lots into Balboa Park's center, but has been popular with all ages as a sightseeing service.

Since the Trams began operating, over 57,000 riders have enjoyed the service. The shuttle service operates between the Palisades area and Plaza de Balboa every 20 minutes, between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m., on weekends and holidays and daily during the summer months.

Council agreed to the 10 cent fee per ride through the fall of 1974, when the San Diego Transit Corporation is expected to provide a substitute mini-bus loop service from downtown through the Park.

Construction Seminar Set

The second annual seminar in the preparation of architectural and engineering specifications will be offered at the introductory level, beginning Monday, by the San Diego Chapter of the Construction Specifications Institute.

Registrations may be made through Seminar Chairman Francis J. Smith, specifications coordinator for the architectural-engineering firm of Frank L. Hope and Associates of San Diego.

Extension OK'd For Dog Licenses

The deadline to renew dog licenses has been extended to Feb. 28, according to Milt Solomon of the San Diego County Veterinarian's office.

A rabies vaccination is required prior to licensing.

Solomon reports that 21,000 dogs were vaccinated last month at rabies vaccination clinics sponsored by the San Diego County Veterinary Medical Association.

Solomon said that although the association-sponsored clinics are over, dog owners can still get rabies vaccinations for their dogs through one of the County-sponsored clinics held throughout the year.

Locally, the clinic will be in Spring Valley at the Animal Shelter at 8661 Jamacha blvd.

"We urge all dog owners to renew their dogs' licenses before the deadline date to avoid penalty fees," Solomon said. "All dogs must be licensed."

Biology Class is 'Blind'

Students in John Burak's Biology II class at Monte Vista High school are having a first-hand experience with problems of the blind.

The 17 members of the class are wearing eye masks simulating blindness during a 24-hour period ending tonight. Students are going through as much of their usual routine as possible without removing the blindfolds. That includes attending classes, eating, bathing and sleeping.

"The purpose is to impress upon the students the importance of the gift of sight," Burak said.

Sultans Add To Mats Streak

The Mount Miguel Matadors lengthened their win streak to seven games by ripping the Santana Sultans 81-68, Friday night.

Employing the platoon system once again, the Matadors were able to play both outstanding offense and defense against a tough Santana team.

Mt. Miguel had four players hitting in double figures. Leading the charge was Jess Jenner who put in 21 points. Steve Solomon (17), Dale Hoffman (14) and Ruben Ray (13) were the other three Matadors hitting in double figures.

The Matadors played outstanding defense also. Dale Hoffman led the defense by blocking numerous shots and grabbing 16 rebounds.

Santana in their losing effort landed three of their players in double figures. High point man for the Sultans was Tom Henson, followed by Amollado and Sandy with 12 and 10 points respectively.

The game of basketball usually doesn't have much contact, but that wasn't the case Friday night. Both teams played aggressively with the determination to win.

Mt. Miguel, who was playing on their home court, was supported by a large and enthusiastic crowd that didn't stop cheering the whole game.

The Matadors now hold an 8-4 league record with two games remaining. They might not make it to the C.I.F. playoffs this season, but the way that they've been playing they deserve to. Mt. Miguel has played the league leaders and they have beaten them. With a few good breaks the chance of making it to the playoffs might be close.

$171.4 Million Construction Budget For 1974 Announced By Gas Company

San Diego Gas & Electric Company announced recently that it has budgeted $171.4 million for construction in 1974.

Walter A. Zitlau, company president, said the total is $71.3 million more than was budgeted for last year. The higher figure, he said, reflects the need for more facilities to meet the energy requirements of the area, increasing expenditures for protection and improvement of the environment and mounting costs for construction.

Of the total, $154 million was earmarked for electric generating facilities and for expansion, renewal and improvement of electric transmission and distribution facilities.

An additional $16.2 million was budgeted for expansion, renewal and improvement of the company's gas storage, transmission and distribution systems.

Environmentally related projects call for expenditures of $29.8 million, including $19.6 million for the undergrounding of electric lines in new areas and for the replacement of existing overhead lines with underground facilities in other areas.

Also included among expenditures for environmentally related projects are $1.9 million for initial construction work on a 400-foot stack to serve all generating units at the Encina Power Plant and $1.5 million for installation of a geothermal test facility in the Imperial Valley where the company is scheduled to renew its geothermal test program later this month.

The largest expenditure budgeted for the year is $29.9 million for work on generating unit 5 at the Encina Power Plant. The company hopes to have approval from all necessary agencies in time to start construction on Encina 5 by this coming May. The $63.5 million unit is expected to be in operation by late 1976. It would provide 292,000 kilowatts (net) of new generating capacity to meet customer requirements for electricity.

The company also budgeted $15.5 million for construction of three gas turbine units at the South Bay Power Plant for operation later this year, providing 160,000 kilowatts of capacity to help meet peak load requirements, and $6.4 million for preliminary engineering, environmental studies and regulatory work for a proposed 800,000 kilowatt combined cycle power plant.

In addition, the company budgeted $5.9 million as its share of expenditures in the continuing preliminary work for nuclear units 2 and 3 at the San Onofre Nuclear Generating Station.

The major expenditure budgeted for gas construction is $2 million for installation of 6.7 miles of 16-inch gas transmission line between San Marcos and Escondido. This is the second part of a three-phase project that will join a 30-inch main at Palomar Airport road and a 16-inch main at El Norte Parkway in Escondido. The company installed 2.5 miles of the line between Rancho Santa Fe road and San Marcos avenue in the first part of the project last year.

Roth Wants Highway Funds Used for Rapid Transit

William Matson Roth, Democratic candidate for Governor, said he supports the ballot initiative to open up the Highway Trust Fund to develop other modes of transportation but that it does not go far enough.

"I would propose a constitutional amendment to abolish the Fund and establish a State Transportation Authority that would incorporate into it the Highway Department and the Toll Bridge Authority."

Speaking to members of the press and the San Diego Historical Society at the old Santa Fe Depot, Roth said, "The State Highway Trust Fund has too long been sacrosanct and has not been available for transit needs other than highways."

"A constitutional amendment abolishing the fund entirely is essential and I would propose this."

Point Loma Hilltop To Be 'Restored' by NEL

A program to preserve and beautify the natural resources of 175 acres atop Point Loma has been initiated by Naval Electronics Laboratory Center.

The Center will spend $50,000 during the 1974 fiscal year to extend its efforts in soil conservation, restoration of vegetative cover, landscaping and provision for watering devices for indigenous plant and animal life.

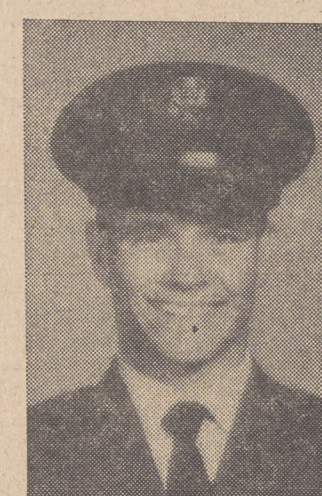

The 175 acres encompass NELC-controlled land adjacent to Catalina blvd., canyons and grounds.

Immediate action will be to provide additional trees and shrubs for the Center entrance on Catalina blvd. and for other buildings near that highway. Irrigation for these plants will also be provided. Plants and trees will be those which serve as food for birds and mammals or which provide wildlife habitats. Also, plant life will offer better soil stabilization.

"Our Center is established in one of the most historical and beautiful areas in California and we want it to remain ecologically balanced as well as attractive," Capt. N. D. Harding, Jr., NELC commanding officer, said.

"We think the program so important that we have earmarked the funds to come from our general operating budget."

James E. 'Johnny' Johnson Is First Black for Senate

James E. "Johnny" Johnson, a black American from Orange County formally announced his candidacy for the United States Senate this week.

Johnson's announcement makes him the first black American to seek a U. S. Senate seat in California and with a General Election victory would become the second elected black U. S. Senator serving in Congress.

The 47 year old Republican made the formal announcement in his hometown of Tustin "because that's where I got my start. I raised my family and went into business there." Since 1965, Johnson has maintained residency in Tustin, a community adjacent to Santa Ana.

Johnson, the former Assistant Secretary of the Navy says he first announced his candidacy for the 1974 U. S. Senate to family and friends back in 1944. "I remember most of my friends laughed at me," Johnson recalls. "But my father said he believed I could make it if I would sacrifice and prepare for the job."

Johnson said he is not running as a black man, a Negro or a minority, but as an American. "When people look at candidates today, they don't want to know who he is, but what he is. They want the man with the best qualifications and not one who will use the Senate seat for on-the-job training."

Although Johnson sees the Senate race as a "qualification," he does not see it as a "qualification."

The twelve winners will compete June 18-21 in Hollywood for the state title.

A Dairy Princess Handbook, and entry form, is available to interested girls by writing the California Milk Advisory Board, P.O. Box 4680, Modesto 95352, or 3711 Long Beach blvd., Long Beach 90807.

Lynch Seeks Reelection To Equalization Board

John W. Lynch of Fresno has declared his candidacy for re-election to the State Board of Equalization.

"I intend to continue to treat taxpayers fairly and equitably as I have since first being elected to this Board in 1958," he said.

Lynch represents nine counties — San Diego, Imperial, Kern, Kings, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, Fresno and Tulare.

Lynch said he would continue to work for economy in tax administration and pointed to the Board's record since he entered office.

"The Board has taken on increased responsibilities in both property tax and business tax administration, yet we have 18 fewer employees than we had in 1959. There were 2,438 employees in 1958-59. Now there are 2,420. State and local tax collections for which the Board is responsible amounted to over $4,757,000,000 for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1973."

Lynch is a Democrat. "However, I do not feel that partisan politics has any place in tax administration. The Board, in addition to its tax collecting functions, is a quasi-judicial agency that hears appeals on tax matters and makes decisions according to law."

Lynch is an accountant and a former Internal Revenue Agent who has served in various executive capacities with national tax associations.

'Dial-Tone-First Legislation Introduced Last Week by Fong

Assemblywoman March Fong (D-Oakland) last week introduced legislation which would eliminate the necessity of depositing a dime in a pay phone to summon help in an emergency situation.

"Public pay telephones, no matter how strategically located, are of no value or assistance to anyone urgently needing police, fire or ambulance service today, unless he has the proper pocket change," Ms. Fong said.

"Without a dime, or a couple of nickels or a quarter, which must be deposited to get a dial tone on a pay telephone, someone facing a crisis or badly in need of help is just plain out of luck," she said.

"In some dire emergency cases the lack of a dime could cost a life," Ms. Fong said.

Her bill would require the installation of pay telephone systems which would produce immediate dial tones as soon as the telephone receiver is lifted, the same as private home or office telephones.

To make an ordinary call on such a system, the proper change would still have to be deposited. But in an emergency or when assistance from the operator is required and the caller does not have the proper change, he could still dial the operator and ask for help.

"When calling an operator from a pay telephone today, the time is automatically returned anyway, so the phone companies would not sustain economic loss by this proposal," Ms. Fong said.

"The person whose car is stalled or out of gas on the edge of the freeway and creating a hazard, should not be frustrated in his efforts to reach the California Highway Patrol for lack of a dime," Ms. Fong said.

"Our technology should be designed to help people, not frustrate them," she added.

The "Dial-Tone-First" pay telephone system is already successfully in use in the State of New Jersey and Ms. Fong's legislation would require its installation in California by 1977.

The automobile remains as the favorite method for Americans to see their country with the average vacation trip totalling 320 miles. Visits to friends or relatives average 12 miles in each direction while an average pleasure ride runs to 40 miles.
